The Free Methodist Church in the 360 Mission District

Origins

Beach communities throughout Central America attract people from the cities of the region and countries all over the world. Following relational networks, churches have been started in Parrita and the San Jose metropolitan area. Several home groups have the potential to become churches. A new church plant hopes to reach the beach community in Panamá. Several leaders in this new district are part of Christian Surfers International (CSI). The vision of CSI is to evangelize surfers, provide a bridge from the beach to the local church, and to engage Christian surfers in an intentional mission.

Present Ministries

The 360 Mission District is based in Costa Rica and serves surfing communities all over the world through its connection to Cristian Surfers International. Its ministry is holistic and transformational and focuses on creating flexible structures to sustain continued church growth. After being closed due to the pandemic, the mission district has been able to re-open the Uno Mas (one more) tutoring center for children and the computer center for adults.

Pray for:

- the multiplication of committed disciples and development of healthy leaders
- continued active participation in the transformation of individuals, families and society
- God's guidance over the ordination process of two ministerial candidates
