Did you know?

The Angolan flag is red, black and gold - representing shed blood and the African continent. The center emblem symbolizes the country's wealth.

Angolans normally shake hands when greeting one another - but when introduced to an older person, typically bow their head.

Angola is the birthplace of the dreadlocks hair style.

The name "Angola" comes from the word "ngola," a title for kings used many years ago.

Angola is rich in natural resources including oil and diamonds.

The sable antelope is Angola's national symbol.
