

Four Women Who Wouldn't Give Up

by Hope Owsley, Brazil

Churches in Brazil celebrate their birthdays every year. Dan and I just returned from a trip to Cuiabá to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the Free Methodist Church in that city and also to participate in the inauguration of the new church building for the Igreja Central FMC. Saturday we had three two-and-a-half hour church services in a row; yet nobody got tired. We were too exhilarated with the many stories of God's faithfulness during the last two decades.

At the anniversary celebration Dan shared about a low time in the church when the members had all drifted away and only four women were left. Nadir, Helena, Cecilia and Marina prayed together every Thursday night for God to do a miracle and to resurrect the congregation. Little did they know that 20 years later, three of their sons would be lead pastors in Free Methodist churches. At the time of their prayer meetings two of the young men were not even Christians!

Think of it. Four women who prayed, never knowing the solution was going to come from their own households. When the Lord called their boys, the mothers were more than willing for their sons to answer. Now there are five healthy and thriving Free Methodist churches in Cuiabá. God is moving, and the churches are growing – all because four women wouldn't give up praying and were willing to be a part of God's answer.

Four Women Who Wouldn't Give Up

by Hope Owsley, Brazil

Churches in Brazil celebrate their birthdays every year. Dan and I just returned from a trip to Cuiabá to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the Free Methodist Church in that city and also to participate in the inauguration of the new church building for the Igreja Central FMC. Saturday we had three two-and-a-half hour church services in a row; yet nobody got tired. We were too exhilarated with the many stories of God's faithfulness during the last two decades.

At the anniversary celebration Dan shared about a low time in the church when the members had all drifted away and only four women were left. Nadir, Helena, Cecilia and Marina prayed together every Thursday night for God to do a miracle and to resurrect the congregation. Little did they know that 20 years later, three of their sons would be lead pastors in Free Methodist churches. At the time of their prayer meetings two of the young men were not even Christians!

Think of it. Four women who prayed, never knowing the solution was going to come from their own households. When the Lord called their boys, the mothers were more than willing for their sons to answer. Now there are five healthy and thriving Free Methodist churches in Cuiabá. God is moving, and the churches are growing – all because four women wouldn't give up praying and were willing to be a part of God's answer.