

Hearts Beating in Unison

by Don and Kathy Williams, Thailand

Barnabas* grew up in Laos but fled his homeland as a young man during the Vietnam War by swimming across the Mekong River with his brother. After a year of living in a camp for displaced people on the border between Thailand and Laos, he finally made his way to the United States. While in the States he became a Christian. He then completed Bible college in Canada.

Eventually Barnabas returned to Laos to minister to his countryman. He was kicked out of the country twice for being a Christian and teaching others about his faith. He now lives in Thailand where he is involved in ministry with the Chiang Mai FM Church, teaching English and leading Bible studies. To help church members become self-supporting and self-sustaining, Barnabas grows fruits and vegetables on a small plot of land he has rented. He also teaches local Thais the benefits of raising frogs and fish. Two small thatched homes have been built on the property for a couple needy families who attend the local church and who help Barnabas with the projects. The homes are also used as a gathering place for Bible studies and English classes.

Barnabas is a mature disciple of the Lord Jesus Christ who, in turn, deeply disciples others. Barnabas doesn't only hear and talk truth, he lives it. His example of sacrificial giving and serving illustrates an intimate walk with Jesus.

Though Barnabas has been able to accomplish much through God's grace, his desire is to reach out to his Lao brothers and sisters near the Thai/Lao border. His heart beats in unison with the Father's that none should perish.

*Name has been changed

Hearts Beating in Unison

by Don and Kathy Williams, Thailand

Barnabas* grew up in Laos but fled his homeland as a young man during the Vietnam War by swimming across the Mekong River with his brother. After a year of living in a camp for displaced people on the border between Thailand and Laos, he finally made his way to the United States. While in the States he became a Christian. He then completed Bible college in Canada.

Eventually Barnabas returned to Laos to minister to his countryman. He was kicked out of the country twice for being a Christian and teaching others about his faith. He now lives in Thailand where he is involved in ministry with the Chiang Mai FM Church, teaching English and leading Bible studies. To help church members become self-supporting and self-sustaining, Barnabas grows fruits and vegetables on a small plot of land he has rented. He also teaches local Thais the benefits of raising frogs and fish. Two small thatched homes have been built on the property for a couple needy families who attend the local church and who help Barnabas with the projects. The homes are also used as a gathering place for Bible studies and English classes.

Barnabas is a mature disciple of the Lord Jesus Christ who, in turn, deeply disciples others. Barnabas doesn't only hear and talk truth, he lives it. His example of sacrificial giving and serving illustrates an intimate walk with Jesus.

Though Barnabas has been able to accomplish much through God's grace, his desire is to reach out to his Lao brothers and sisters near the Thai/Lao border. His heart beats in unison with the Father's that none should perish.

*Name has been changed