

A Long and Winding Road

Life is a long and winding road. Sometimes long, full of curves and surprises, with a few unsuspecting challenges along the way. Life, just a like and long winding road, requires adjustments along the way.

In five indescribably wonderful months of service in SE Asia, we fell in love with the people, languages, cultures, oh and the food! What an undeserved privilege to serve such faithful people in the midst of their everyday trials and difficulties!

We now find ourselves back in upstate New York. Five airports and three different airlines in two days summed up our arduous journey. My sister and brother-in-law in Buffalo have a heart for missions, in fact they think much like missionaries. Their home has a separate self-sufficient basement apartment exiting out at ground level which they offered to us. Following CDC guidelines out of an abundance of caution and respect to family young and old we are completing a 14 day self-quarantine. As I wrote this we were on Day 12 and just went in for Covid-19 testing, both to see if we have it and to see if we are carrying the antibodies. Results in a few days.

Like so many of you, we also find ourselves working remotely. This past week I completed writing a learning module on “Mentoring” that has been accepted into our SE Asia resource system. Our long term goal is to have such modules translated into the many different languages of SE Asia (and beyond) and made available via video sessions that can be downloaded on a mobile phone anytime, anywhere.

Next week I look forward to giving you an update on our next project which is stirring a lot of excitement and enthusiasm in our spirits. Perhaps this will be a project you would like to help us support. Stay tuned...

And since we are only thirty minutes from Niagara Falls, here is a favorite photo to enjoy.

We thank you all for your love and encouragement and support.

From the long and winding road....

A friend,
Roger and Ellen

*Life,
just a like
and long winding
road,
requires adjustments along the way.*

JUNE 9, 2020